

* Decision Making Strategies for Difficult Issues *

POTENTIAL SOLUTIONS:

Possible Action	Consequence/Result
_____	_____
_____	_____
_____	_____
_____	_____
_____	_____
_____	_____

As you consider these options, think about the consequences for yourself and the other people involved with the situation. What are potential negative results?

What are potential positive results of various options? _____

Today: I am leaning toward this decision - _____

Tomorrow: After thinking and sleeping on this issue for another day, I am leaning toward this decision - _____

I have made my decision: _____

I have NOT made my decision and need more time. _____

Name: _____ Date: _____

CHECKLIST FOR MAKING DIFFICULT DECISIONS

- Consider all parts of the situation. The burden of consequence is on you, not others. Do not over-exaggerate or under-estimate the issue. Keep your perspective.
- Have goals for your life with Plan A and have Plan B in place for those bumps in the road. Stay focused
- Take small careful steps using your wisdom & knowledge. Trust yourself.
- Consult trusted, wise people who love and value you, and understand your dreams and beliefs. Don't compare yourself to others.
- Consult professionals if you need outside information or support. Reach out to others.
- Avoid impulsive and/or emotional decisions. Calmly look at all of the facts and logic. Take your time. Collect all information necessary to consider. Use self-control.
- Even making difficult decisions that seem to throw you off course, can be handled well. Be assertive and sure.
- Avoid decisions that have drastic negative impact on your life now and in the future. Some decisions can never be changed or corrected. Seriously list pros and cons. Be honest with yourself.
- Pray and ask God for direction even if you aren't used to this task. Feel good spiritually in your heart and intuition about your decision.
- Look forward to the future with hope, promise and confidence.
- You've got this!!♥

Check all that you have done, before making your decision.

Time is on your side.